Company Overview:

Daniels Health is a globally recognized brand operating in six countries, setting the standard for healthcare waste management. With a scalable service model catering to healthcare facilities of all sizes, Daniels Health is governed by state and federal compliance, EPA regulations, and industry norms. Renowned for innovative products, seamless service solutions, and a relentless focus on safety and infection risk reduction, Daniels Health has established a strong and credible presence in North America, the United Kingdom, Australia, and South Africa.

Position Overview:

As a Truck Driver at Daniels Health Canada, a subsidiary of Daniels Health, you will play a vital role in our mission to provide efficient and safe management of infectious waste streams to healthcare facilities, including hospitals, nursing homes, and medical centers.

Key Responsibilities:

- Safely operate commercial trucks to transport infectious waste materials between healthcare facilities and disposal sites.
- Adhere to all relevant state, federal, and local regulations, as well as Daniels Health safety standards and protocols.
- Perform pre-trip and post-trip inspections on the vehicle to ensure roadworthiness.
- Efficiently load and unload waste materials, ensuring proper handling and disposal procedures are followed.
- Maintain accurate records of transportation activities, including logs, mileage, and any incidents.
- Collaborate with facility staff for smooth waste disposal operations, fostering positive customer relationships.
- Report any vehicle issues or incidents promptly to the appropriate channels.
- Uphold the company's commitment to safety, infection risk reduction, and environmental compliance.

Qualifications:

- Air Brakes Endorsement
Class 1/1F/A Licence (semi trailer trucks)
Transportation of Dangerous Goods (TDG) Certificate
- 1 year to 2 or more years of experience
- Proven experience as a commercial truck driver, preferably in the healthcare waste management sector.
- Knowledge of and adherence to state, federal, and local regulations governing waste transportation.
- Ability to follow safety protocols and infection risk reduction measures.
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills for positive interactions with facility staff.
- Attention to detail and commitment to maintaining accurate records.
- No specific level of education is required.
- Ability to communicate in English.

Why Join Daniels Health:

Join a globally respected brand with a focus on innovation, safety, and infection risk reduction. As a Truck Driver at Daniels Health Canada, you will contribute to the vital mission of ensuring safe and responsible infectious waste management in healthcare facilities.

Application Process:

If you are a skilled and safety-conscious Truck Driver seeking to contribute to a dynamic healthcare waste management team, we invite you to apply. Submit your resume and cover letter detailing your relevant experience to Kristina.Knezevic@danielshealth.ca. Daniels Health is an equal opportunity employer. Indigenous persons, youth, newcomers, asylum-based WP holders, and persons with disabilities are welcome to apply.

The company might offer to make necessary arrangements to provide cost-effective accommodations for the selected candidate. Additionally, we will consider covering reasonable relocation expenses to facilitate a smooth transition.

To apply for this job vacancy, please send your resume along with a cover letter and a reference letter from your previous employer to the following email: Kristina.Knezevic@danielshealth.ca
